report of Wednesday's service on the Mountaineer camp ground that the INTELLIGENCER had yesterday to dismiss it with such a brief notice. Naturally the reports of the meetings are looked for with interest by the sojourners in camp, and yesterday's disappointing was keenly felt. Yesterday was "Young People's Day" and the weather was all that could have been wished. The morning service was less than usual, but the afternoon service was the most remarkable service I have ever attended, and some of the testimonies were not only interesting, but a blessing to all who heard them. Especially was this true in the case of Dr. Cuning's and Father Gordon Battelle's experiences, and the former spoke of God's wonderful work in his conversion, changing their hearts from darkness to light while the latter had an account of how the late of preaching. On his first journey he traveled 300 miles and preached forty times every four weeks. He said, "boys, how would you like that now?" He supposed the boys would not be able to do such a feat, for such work.

At 10:30 services opened with singing. Prayer was offered by Rev. G. W. Grimes. The quartette sang a most beautiful selection, after which the most interesting feature of the service was given. Oliver, the M. E. minister of this city, said, "I have been to the fair at Greenville, Ohio, charge, preached from the text: "He was a burning and a shining light."

These words were a wreath of immortality, laid on the head of John the Baptist by Christ. John, though young, was a burning and shining light, and this is what all young people want to be. He said, "I want to be a burning and a shining light."

shine—how to shine in society, how to shine in the home. God doesn't show us to live for show only, but shows us to live for go. John was sent by God. He was in the world for something, for a purpose, and we should remember we are all placed here for a purpose. So many get a wrong idea of their purpose.

parents, teachers and friends. John grew up to be a man in the world; and he made this out of it. Some are born for one thing, and some for another; some for preachers, some for soldiers, some for workers of various kinds; but all are born to do some work, and it is our duty as well as privilege to be saints, to be workers in God's vineyard. We are called to know our duty, and to be contented with it. We must be witnesses for the truth, be unified with Christ. Jesus is after us all the time. We must work with him to the end. This is the duty of every man and woman God wants you to be. We must be obedient to God's will, and do it willingly. God wants us to do, and we must be obedient to his will. We must be able to play with toys all our lives, and be able to work. There must be joy in the consequence in the providence of God. By many this was thought to be the sermon of the meeting thus far. It was really one of the very best. At the close of the meeting, the people in the congregation knelt around the altar, and a consecration service was held, and it

Rev. C. B. Randall led the children's meeting at 1:30. This is becoming one of the most interesting services of the meeting. Several of the little folks gave recitations that were much enjoyed by who heard them. Rev. Mr. Oliver took a short time in a way that greatly pleased the little ones.

At 3 o'clock Rev. Mr. Swindells preached another of his most excellent sermons from the text "I pray not that you should take them from the world, but that thou should keep them from the evil." The sermon was a most and should lead holy lives, and not expect to be made holy just as death comes. It was forcibly delivered and added the large audience throughout.

preacher. His sermons are logical arguments, so convincing that they bring conviction with them. His descriptive powers are great and his life pictures captivate both old and young. He is in the full vigor of his manhood and he will make his mark wherever he goes.

The mother's meeting at 4 o'clock in the assembly hall was well attended and presided by Mrs. Dr. Moore, of Moundville. The subject discussed was "Duty of Parents to Children." These services will be continued from day to day until the close of the meeting.

From 6 to 7 p. m. a prayer meeting is held in the Auditorium.

...er, by Rev. Mr. Swindells; the artette sang, "That Old, Old Story is me," Rev. J. Sumner Stone preached om the text: "Being in the way, the ord led me."
This sums up a christian experience.
ere is something practical about it d something supernatural. "I being the way." This is the practical the way. "The Lord led me." This is the supernatural part, the part that God does. Just as sure as we get in the way the Lord will lead us. We are not sinners are forgiven. He advised all to be sure to get in the way, and then to be sure that the Lord will lead.

The entire session was the earnest expression of a friend, talking to friends and to the congregation, a way that held the constant attention of the entire congregation.

At the close of the sermon the quartette sang "Beautiful Hands," which brought tears from the eyes of many in the audience. Rev. M. Oliver and wife sang "Beautiful Golden Gates," a good effect, after which Mr. Oliver gave one of the most earnest exhortations of the meeting. He said there was nothing more preaching to sound all the Gospel, it was needed. We needed more hallelujahs and glory. There was material enough here for a whole valley after, if we would give place.

The service today will be as follows: Morning service at 8 o'clock; teaching at 10:30; by Rev. L. L. Stewart; children's meeting at 1:30; by Rev. D. L. Ash; prayer and singing at 2:30; by Rev. Mr. Lane, of Belhairs; young people's meeting at 4 p. m.; all; preaching at 4 p. m. in Assembly hall; preaching at 7:30.

Rev. D. L. Ash, Wesley, M. E. church, Wheeling, has returned from the Shinnston camp meeting, where he preached on Sunday, and is now on the road, and will be, with his wife and child, and will return during the meeting.

Rev. J. B. Feather and wife arrived yesterday.

The audience last night was almost as large as that of Sunday night.

Rev. L. L. Stewart, Presiding Elder of the Presbytery of West Virginia, is
